

CONTEXT

UNE 93200 governs service charters: the public, measurable commitment an organization makes to its users. It is especially valued in public administration and any citizen-oriented service that wants to demonstrate transparency.

WHAT THE STANDARD REQUIRES

- The definition of concrete quality commitments
- Measurable indicators for each commitment
- Public communication of the service charter
- A complaints and suggestions management system
- Monitoring of commitment fulfillment
- Periodic review and update of the charter

IMPLEMENTATION PHASES

- | | | |
|---|---|------|

RETURN FOR YOUR ORGANIZATION

- ✓ Transparency and trust with the citizen/user
- ✓ Public, measurable commitments that differentiate the service
- ✓ Continuous improvement from complaints and suggestions
- ✓ Especially valued in the public sector

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Is it only for public administration?

It is very common in the public sector, but any service organization can adopt it.

What is a service charter?

A document capturing quality commitments and their indicators, publicly communicated to users.

Is it a quick project?

Yes, one of the most agile certifications: 3-4 months depending on service complexity.
